September ith, 1835. After the nonsense of my last letter, I almost despair of putting you in a humour to enjoy the serious matter likely to be contained in this. I have just returned from an excursion on foot from the one end to the other of Paris, making, as a sensible traveller ought to do, remarks upon the customs, institutions, and monuments of the place, and here I am with a sheet of double post THE SEINE. 21J to write you down these remarks. I would call it a classical tour, but I have some doubts whether walking in a straight line is a tour, and therefore I have called it simply a journal. I had for my companion the Seine--he was going for sea-bathing to the Havre. His destination thence no more known than ours, when we float into eternity. Some little wave may, however, roll till it reach the banks of the Delaware--and who knows, that lifted into vapour by the sun, it may not spread in rains upon the Broad Mountain, and at...
