Excerpt: .we began to rearrange the chairs, etc., in case Mr. Brace should come. The rain ceased falling, but the roads were in bad shape, yet a few of us lingered awhile, taking an occasional look up the road. I finally said: Vell, I think we might as well make our way home, for there ll be no preaching here this day; it has been too stormy for Mr. Brace to get here. Now don t you settle down to any such idea as that, said Dr. Bailey, for I believe he ll come yet; it s a hard pull; but I know the man too well to give him up yet; and, sure enough, in a little while, along came our true and tried friend Mr. Brace. Upon other after school occasions, the late Mr. Harris, then pastor of the Voodbury church, and others...
