STAHL UND EISEN (17, PT. 1)

RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 152 pages. Original publisher: Washington : U. S. G. P. O. : For sale by the Supt. of Docs. , U. S. G. P. O. , 2004. OCLC Number: (OCoLC)54433231 Subject: Medication abuse -- Maine. Excerpt: . . . 11 The story with them was they were all in the same vehicle, crashed the car into a bridge abutment, they were brought to the emergency department at Maine Medical Center. One of them had a fractured leg. It was a fairly high energy accident, so that the potential for severe injuries was great. They were lethargic; they had all been at a party. In talking with them, they had received their high-dose methadone at the clinic that morning, had taken a take-home dose either between two of them or all three of them - it was not clear to me whether two of them or all three of them - but they ingested their methadone in the parking lot, partied for an indeterminate amount of time and decided to drive home on the Maine Turnpike and then ultimately crashed the car. So I would indicate to you that the threat is not only to those who are using and abusing as we have seen before, methadone abuse, prescription drug abuse as you indicated, that then leads to other drugs in the narcotics, including heroin and methadone, and that threat is not only for those patients but also for those of us driving down the roads and working in those environments. The numbers currently support that for the year 2002 there is one life threatening overdose in the State of Maine from narcotics treated by emergency medical services every day. In the City of Portland that translates into one...
