Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.It is hard to explain just how much we haven't accepted. Simply put, there have been several civilizations on the Earth and in this solar system. Construction so massive and old that we don't see it when looking directly at it. Certainly these elders would have left a few machines and surely these machines would be self-repairing and self-replicating and self-directed. In other words, artificial intelligences connected to construction machinery and biological processors that could whip up anything imaginable. Imagine a galactic space station made of fuel for incoming ships with hundreds parked in orbit. That's Saturn. Phobos is a hollow canister and Mars proper is littered with debris and seems to have been destroyed by a massive catastrophe. Our own moon has a massive strip mine in Copernicus crater large enough to be seen with a telescope. Since that is true where are the really good photos taken with the Hubble? But these are facts that take a few years to digest. You are being kept from the truth for your own good - after all, why do you need to know these things? They may just cause you anxiety as there is nothing you can do about it. I have other books on the truth of this subject. This book is science fiction. This book postulates that Jack decides to find an AI that runs this solar system. The thing isn't hidden. It just doesn't have the same feelings as you and I do. It doesn't cry when a young child dies from leukemia. It doesn't get hungry or desire company. It isn't human, it s...
