Excerpt from The Birmingham Medical Review, Vol. 34: A Quarterly Journal of the Medical Sciences, April, 1880 But the second part Of this question, the reception of poor paying patients, is one well deserving the attention Of the managing bodies of our local charities. Mr. Burdett recommends the adoption of this principle for both in and out patients. It is in practice in America, and most Continental States, and is not unknown in this country. In London, the German and French hospitals, the Hospital for Women in Soho Square, the London Fever Hospital; in the country, the various cottage hospitals; and in Edinburgh, at Chalmer s Hospital, this system has been worked with more or less success for many years. The difficulty is to decide who are to pay, and who are to be free? Mr. Burdett says, the simplest and probably the easiest method is that which leaves the burden of proof to the patient. Of course, all accidents, and especially urgent cases, must always be admitted to a hospital without question at the time of application. Such cases can, however, be dealt with after admission. But in the ordinary run of cases a guarantee for payment must be secured beforehand. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
