AUTHORHOUSE, United States, 2006. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This book is about a young lay in a small North Alabama town starting out hoping to find her true love. Being so young when she first got married she knew nothing about what it was going to be like or what she was about to go through. She was brought up to believe that a marriage was supposed to be loving, with trust and happiness. She had to find out that sometimes no matter what you think or believe it doesn t always happen that way. There is a lot of difference in playing house with your boy neighbor and dolls than making a house and home with your breathing, walking doll husband. She has to find out the hard way about men that they are all not as loving and trusting as you see on television or hear about in fairytales. No matter how hard on person tries to make a marriage work if the other one doesn t want to try then you re fighting a losing battle. She has to find out what and how it feels to have someone that you love to be unfaithful to you, like someone has ripped your heart from your body. And how to try to mend over them, put it behind you, and go on trying again. The story tells us of many kinds of abuse, that abuse isn t just being beaten up or slapped around by men; but that there are many forms of abuse including physical, mental sexual and verbal. They can make you feel like you are the lowest person on earth, so ugly that no one else would want you. She finds out that sometimes the pain...
