Going organic for our fruits and vegetables is always an option, but the price of organic produce makes this difficult for those who live on a budget. Wouldn't it be fantastic if you could grow enough organic produce yourself to find your entire family? Just the peace of mind of not having to worry about what you eat would be wonderful. But maybe you don't have the space for a garden. This is where square foot gardening comes in, allowing you to grow a large abundance of produce in a small space.
