Monday, May 27th, 1861 Does it not remind us to-day, although it has yet no outward show to commend it, of those comprehensive foundations to which, in the twelfth century, the name of University was first applied - the Sorbonnes and Oxfords where science and religion collected their diverse and yet harmonious schools beneath the Gothic arches - those institutions that seemed to have discovered the secret of perpetual youth - that in the conflicts of centuries stood fast, rearing their holy towers above the mists of morning and the dusts of noon, and pointing in silence heavenward. It would be of deep interest, did the time serve and the occasion permit, to trace the links which bind our Institution to the general history of learning. It would be pleasant to enumerate those convocations and those saintly spirits who, age after age, have devoted themselves to instruction because of their great love to Christ and to the souls...
