The Middle Circuit.--Leading Lawyers--Ned Bacon--The staunch old Methodist and Rebel Preacher--The young Convict What I have written relates to the Northern Circuit of Georgia, in which I have resided; but practising at one time in one county of the Middle Circuit, I cannot let it pass without saying it was remarkable for the courtesy and high breeding of the leading members of its Bar, who always give tone to the rest of the profession and indeed, I may say, in some degree, to the best citizens of the circuit in which they practice. These gentlemen bore themselves towards each other, in the court-house, with the same deference and urbanity they practiced in the drawing-room. Compared to the ill-nature and vulgarity--not to say brutality--I have noticed in some circuits, generally due to one or more leading members of the profession--it was the...
