So to be girded with strength was to be in the best condition for the contests of life: like a perfectly-trained athlete ready for the game. Subdued. The Hebrew has the idea of submission, bowed or caused to bow, as an inferior bows before his master. The enemies were not merely defeated; they humbly acknowledged that they were defeated. Stamp. as the mire. The dust or refuse of the streets was trod upon and stamped down as useless in any other place or condition; so were his enemies put in the only condition where they would be of service to the psalmist. Fade away. The figure here seems to be that of plants and grass under the scorching rays of an eastern sun. Some suppose it refers to the hot east wind,...
