Rule 4.--When several grammatical expressions of the same construction follow each other in a series, all depending on the same clause, they should be separated from each others by semicolons, and from the clause on which they all depend, by a comma. Example.--That Nature is a bountiful mother: that she is always ready to bestow good gifts upon her children; that those who know her best will love her most, our every-day life teaches. Punctuate. 1. The Holy Spirit is the embodiment of wisdom against folly of quickness of apprehension against dullness of faithfulness of memory against forgetfulness of fortitude against fear of knowledge against ignorance of piety against profaneness of humility against pride. THE COLON. The Colon marks the use of a pause more nearly complete than that marked by the semicolon. Rule 1.--A colon should be used before a direct quotation, which is...
