Excerpt from Annual Report for the Year 1956: January 2, 1957 (Original Release Date) It is not a pleasant task to state these conclusions. The Committee on un-american Activities would prefer to report to the Congress and to the American people that the tide has turned against international communism and that the day of its dissolution is in sight. The committee cannot do so. There are many, nevertheless, who feel that communism has become enfeebled and exultantly hail each new sound from the Soviet sphere as the death knell of the vast Communist totalitarian empire. It is a grave delusion which they embrace. Events in Hungary are still fresh enough for us to remember the jubilation which reigned at the rising of the courageous men and women of that nation against the despots who had enslaved them. We can remember too our profound shock as Soviet tanks and troops marched back to crush the rebels and demonstrate that the power of the Kremlin had not diminished. Numerically, the membership of the Communist Party of the United States has declined considerably during the past few years as many dilettantes left the fringes from which they had long gazed with starry eyed credulity. But those remaining in the Communist apparatus comprise a hard core of revolutionaries who have consecrated themselves to accomplish the annihilation of our form of government. Anyone who thinks that communism in the United States no longer constitutes a serious menace should consider that at this moment on American soil are the equivalent of 20 combat divisions of enemy troops engaging in propaganda, espionage, subversion, and loyal only to the Soviet Union. A prominent American jurist once observed that if...
