Loss of life is normally a painful experience. Both the young and the old die; so do the rich and the poor. When death pays a visit, no one says, Not now, come later, everyone is under its command. At death, soul and body separates. The body goes back to the ground where it came from, while the soul goes back to God who gave it. In the meantime, a cloud of grief grips the family when a family member passes away. However, when a spouse is deceased, whole ranges of intricacies come in to play. How does the surviving spouse mourn? Thankfully, there is hope beyond the grave. Those who die in the Lord experience a unique blessedness. Their death is precious in sight of the Lord. How does the surviving spouse receive the shocking news of the loss? How does one manage the resulting pain, the funeral, and the aftermath? Managing the in-laws, the memorial ceremonies, the property, and the children are pertinent matters a surviving spouse faces. How does one manage their emotions, pick up the broken pieces, and move on? This Christian novel seeks to answer these tough questions in the marriage life of Peterson and Eva. Take a moment and glean the pearls of matrimony.
