Excerpt from Clinical Treatises on the Pathology and Therapy of Disorders of Metabolism and Nutrition, Vol. 8: Inanition and Fattening Cures The four lectures comprised in this monograph and in the succeeding one (part IX, Reduction Cures and Gout) were delivered in a post-graduate course for Vienna physicians (may, By request of a number of local and foreign hearers, I am herewith publishing them in a somewhat extended form. I have omitted literature references throughout, as the latter may be found complete in my Handbook on the Pathology of Metabolism that has recently appeared (berlin, 1906 A few of the latest publications, however, that have been issued since then, are quoted. Whereas in my Handbook the facts that underlie our knowledge Of the disorders Of metabolism are exhaustively and critically explained, I have limited myself in these lectures essentially to a discussion of certain general conclusions that are based on theoretical and clinical experience and that are Of value in actual practice. It was impossible, Of course, to refrain altogether from occasional excursions into the theoretical side of the...
