

Roger Brown: Southern Exposure (Paperback)

By Sidney Lawrence

The University of Alabama Press, United States, 2007. Paperback. Condition: New. New. Language: English . Brand New Book. Visionary art by an Alabama native who grew to affect the world far beyond his small-town southern roots The work of Roger Brown (1941-1997) - a nationally celebrated artist, innovator of the Chicago Imagist movement, and an Alabama native - has been exhibited many times and is held in numerous collections, public and private. However, no view of his life and work is as personal as Roger Brown: Southern Exposure . Published to coincide with a traveling exhibit originating at the Jule Collins Smith Museum of Fine Art at Auburn University, this volume highlights a very intimate side of Brown's oeuvre: his connection to family and his southern roots. From his early childhood drawings to his homes in Chicago, Michigan, and California, and then his return to Alabama, we witness the talent of a boy turned artist and social critic. The son of a grocer/restaurateur and an artistically inclined housewife, Roger grew up in Opelika watching his father build things, his mother collect cherished mementos, and his younger brother's first endeavors as an artist. Brown's southern heritage remained relevant...
