Excerpt from An Address, Written by Mr. Clerc, and Read by His Request at a Public Examination of the Pupils in the Connecticut Asylum, Before the Governour and Both Houses of the Legislature, 28th May, 1818 The first conception of a great man, is usually a fruitful germ. Well acquainted with the French grammar, he knew that every language was a collection of signs, as a series of drawings is a collection of figures, the representation of a multitude of objects, and that the Deaf and Dumb can describe every thing by gestures, as you paint every thing with colours, or express every thing by words he knew that every object had a form, that every form was capable of being imitated that, actions struck your sight, and that you were able to describe them by imitative gestures; he knew that words were conventional signs, and that gestures might be the same, and that there could therefore be a language formed of gestures, as there was a language of words. We can state as a probable fact, that there was...
