

Door Languages (Paperback)

By Zafer Senocak

Zephyr Press, United States, 2008. Paperback. Condition: New. Bilingual. Language: German . Brand New Book. Born in Ankara in 1961, Zafer Senocak has lived in Germany since 1970. Over the years, he has become a leading voice in the German discussions on multiculturalism and national identity. His volume of essays Atlas of the Tropical Germany is currently included on the American Association of University Professors list of books to further our understanding of issues surrounding 9/11. Between 1996 and 2000, Senocak was writer-in-residence at four US universities and was a featured author at the 2007 PEN World Festival in New York City. Door Languages contains material from four of Senocak's recent German collections. His Story when there were no secrets partswriting was devised on a woman's body no part left undescribed men and their dirty fingers mixed up one character with the other until the letters couldn't be read they had never gotten around to reading they became doubters of script looking for the lost language burned all books short of their own body out of the ashes fashioned their dream dame veiled it deep black are illiterates still Elizabeth Oehlkers Wright's translations of contemporary German poets have been featured in numerous journals. She was the winner of Agni...

READ ONLINE
[6.98 MB]

Reviews

An incredibly awesome publication with perfect and lucid reasons. It can be written in simple phrases and not confusing. I am just delighted to let you know that this is actually the very best publication I actually have studied during my very own lifestyle and could be the best publication for actually.

-- Paula Gutkowski

It is one of the most popular publications. It is actually written in easy words instead of confusing. You will like how the author created this book.

-- Art Gislason