Not illustrated. 1915 Excerpt: .types of locomotives contrast with the giant mogul engines of the present day, where sections of huge ocean liners are seen in contrast with tiny models, into the great Palace of Agriculture, where threshing machines, harvesting machines, reapers, sowers, are beheld in operation, into the Palace of Food Products where the closely packed throngs watch every step in the preparation of edibles, and into the other vast palaces an amazed and delighted throng daily progresses from the opening of the Exposition in the morning until the close of the exhibit palaces at night. A feature pleasing to the many thousands of visitors is that active measures are taken for their entertainment. There are upon the grounds no less than fifty-four moving picture shows, wherein are daily displayed without charge in the exhibit palaces and in State and national pavilions, well selected and attractive photographs showing the activities of the various States and countries. Lectures accompany many of the displays, and the visitor is enabled to enjoy scenes from Argentine, China, Japan, the Philippines, the Netherlands, Cuba, Sweden and forty-three other lands. while cinematographs of important works such as the Panama Canal, the New York State lock canal, the manufactories of the great corporations of the United States, and of other interesting scenes are displayed without charge. Wherever practicable throughout the Exposition, machinery is shown in operation, and all steps in the processes of production from the raw material to the finished product are illustrated. A giant...
