CHILDHOOD AND ADOLESCENT DEPRESSION

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: Scholar's Press | The Role of Environmental Adversities and of the Serotonin Transporter Gene in a Developmental Perspective | This research is based upon reasonable evidence that the environment moderates behavioural effects of biological systems (serotonergic neurotransmission) involved in the development of juvenile affective symptoms. The data suggest that the Serotonin Transporter gene is a genetic substrate for youth internalizing behaviour: adolescents who carry a less functioning variant of this gene have a greater risk to develop...
