Excerpt: .and by the fact that the majority of one s neighbors and friends call themselves Christians. Consequently, a man often fails to recognize the vitality and power of the Christian religion. In the Far East, on the contrary, it stands out clear--cut against the background of the Asiatic religions. That which is considered the usual in America is seen as the unusual out there. That which we at home accept halfheartedly is seen to be a wonderful, living force. Any one who has had the privilege of witnessing the effect of the preaching of the Gospel upon a man who has never before heard the Good News can not fail to realize that there is far more to the Christian religion than many in America think Here are a few of the changes that the Christian religion is working in the Far East to-day:...
