GAO reviewed an independent certified public accountants audit of the United States Postal Services (USPS) financial statements for fiscal year 1985. GAO found that: (1) the financial statements fairly presented the financial position of USPS in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a consistent basis; and (2) although the omission of reports on internal accounting controls and compliance with laws and regulations was not in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards, the financial statements were appropriate. GAO believed that the financial statements, together with the certified public accountants opinion and the GAO review of its work, constituted a dependable basis for Congress oversight of the USPS financial position. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
