The Pledge 1965: 75th Anniversary (Classic Reprint) (Paperback)

By University of Maryland

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Pledge 1965: 75th Anniversary From the University Hospital Nurses Alumnae Bulletin, 1925, p. 8-10. As the school grew, we heard that a new home for the nurses was to be built. We were to receive a month, and furnish our own uniforms and books. After the new home was completed, we had more room and more comforts. The chapel was made into a sitting room, where occasionally we had music, or a dance, and the Little Lady In White would occasionally join in the merry-making. From the University Hospital Nurses Alumnae Bulletin, 1925, p. 11. Entering nursing was self-sacrifice and self-denial, giving up of one's home and devoting your life to the service of others. Nurse-doctor relationship was to be strictly professional. Nurses were forbidden to have social conversation with medical students or doctors and to see them after hours was just out of the question. However, twenty graduated with me and four married doctors. Even the telephone conversations were censored when the coding was discovered. Meant same old meeting place. Then there was trusty Wilbur, a night orderly who...
