Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Notes in Psychology on Lectures Supplementary to James Psychology The presentation to large classes in a limited period of a survey of topics in Psychology most important for introductory study requires all the pedagogical aids that can be made available. The instructor must select his material, bringing to the teaching an individual emphasis, and inevitably supplementing the text in the process. The generous use of demonstrations and charts and diagrams Within the lecture hour makes large draughts upon the student's attention and interferes With his notes. The present notes are the result of these conditions. The problems of Sense Perception are considered the standard ones for the beginning student; a comprehension of principles is regarded as fundamental. It seems better to carry a few problems to a fair degree of completeness than to attempt too broad a survey. Moreover, as these notes are supplementary to James Psychology, they must be considered along With the text, to restore the proper perspective. Points satisfactorily covered by the text receive no comment or restatement. It has been found impracticable to include in lectures (twice a week for one semester) much of the material of the latter half of the text. The notes will be used by the author in an introductory manual in preparation, the Copyright of Which is held by Henry Holt co.
